Truths About a Telecom Audit

There's more to an audit than just savings. Learn about how you can improve your business operations and gain financial and non-financial benefits.

What You Need to Know

Here are 4 things from your billing that you should understand before an audit is performed:

- Monthly Recurring Charges (MRCs)
  The base rate on your standard bill. Sometimes several services are bundled together.

- Telecom Usage Charges
  411 directory assistance, call back, event recording, and more, charged per minute or event.

- Third-Party Billing
  Often hidden, the only way to reduce these fees is to check for discrepancies.

- Unused Features
  Added services from the beginning of the contract that have been forgotten about.

Use Audit Savings to Grow Your Business

Discovering savings in an audit is almost guaranteed, but did you know you can use those savings to grow your business?

Extra money can be used to finance projects or technology, bringing you closer to your business objectives. Our customers often use savings for:

- Budget offsets
- Network expansions
- Technology changes
- Equipment upgrades or refreshes
- Increasing bandwidth

Non-Financial Benefits of a Telecom Audit

While savings are a huge benefit, there are also non-financial benefits that can ensure your business is as productive as it can be. These include:

- Bill consolidation
  Eliminate the need to track and monitor spending, resulting in less work for the A/P and IT department.

- Invoicing cleanup
  Free up your staff from tracking line items and bills.

- Business Advocacy
  We negotiate contracts with carriers on your behalf.

Ready to Schedule a Telecom Audit?

We have saved businesses $500 million through performing telecom audits, and most businesses see around 20% in savings. Schedule an audit today to discover what we can save you.